

DSAOA 20.0 Release Notes

This document summarizes the new features and enhancements available in DSAOA version 20.0. All changes included are in addition to the features existing in DSAOA version 19.0. For more details on these changes, please refer to DSAOA manual.

1. When exporting data to excel sheet, multiple sheets are created if number of curves is more than 255
2. Support Matrix Pencil method in Prony analysis
3. Support accessing files using 'http' protocol
4. Support Dissipating Energy Flow (DEF) method to locate sources of sustained oscillations
5. Added capability to plot relay characteristics of zonedef and ooslnq models
6. Support display and comparison of active and reactive power flow of composite load models at high-tension bus